MISSING FROM A YARD, EVERY WEEK

Nuts buys Torres a goal!

It's a polite reminder for you, Nando!

WORDS: DAN CURLEY PHOTOS: RUSSELL RIDINGTON, GETTY IMAGES

We feel a bit sorry for Fernando Torres. After all, a striker who can't score is like a king who can't speak or an ordinary-coloured Essex girl. And since Roman Abramovich spent £50million hauling him down from Anfield to Stamford Bridge, it's been nothing but misery for the Spaniard.

So we thought we'd give him a helping hand by heading to Chelsea with a couple of Nuts girls and a big goal as a polite reminder of what they look like. You're welcome, Nando!

World's biggest drill!

That's a bit big!
Boom, boom!

Met with fireworks and a jolly big cheer, this is the world's biggest drill completing the world's longest tunnel.

The Gotthard Base Tunnel runs under 57km of heavy Swiss Alp, and was cut by four huge machines like this. Each 440m drill weighs 3,000 tonnes, uses five megawatts of power and cuts up to 30m of rock a day. Digging the £624m tunnel involved removing 13 million cubic metres of rock – enough to fill 13 Empire State Buildings. Or pave one Premier League footballer's driveway!

The Only Way Is Essex star topless!

It's Chloe Sims,

We are, of course, card-carrying, fan club-joining, Twitter-following admirers of the massive TV phenomenon that is The Only Way Is Essex. But even we understand that to keep it fresh, it's imperative to add new blood. Step forward Chloe Sims.

The former Playboy model – body from Essex, boobs from a Belgian surgeon, spray tan and vajazzle by Amy Childs – hit the show like an orange whirlwind, with a preposterously-coiffed brother, an enormous set of teeth and a predilection for thongs. Long may it continue, especially that last one!

Avenger!

With Hulk and Iron Man films safely under their producing belts, Marvel pictures are now busily turning Captain America from comic scribble to summer blockbuster.

Starring wise-cracking lump Chris Evans, Captain America: The First Avenger hits our cinemas (3D and ordinary) in July and is shaping up to be undisputed blockbuster of the summer.

And if this is successful? A proper Avengers movie, featuring Cap'n alongside Iron Man, The Hulk and Thor. Which could possibly be the best movie ever!

WEEDY WAZZOCK...

Meet Steve Rogers, a brave but scrawny streak of p*ss who wants to fight Nazi rosters but just gets laughed out of the recruitment centre.

Luckily, Rogers is recruited to "Project Rebirth" – a secret, Super Soldier programme. A quick trip to their special box and he comes out pumped!

FIGHTING!

Now equipped with duds, buddies, an indestructible shield and guns, he's ready to take the fight to the Nazis – and the mysterious Red Skull.

AMERICAN HERO

A bunch of the movie's historic street scenes were shot on set in Manchester. Scenes were also shot in London, Liverpool and Wales. Er, go America!

THE SHIELD

In the comics, the iconic round shield is made from vibranium – an alien metal – fused with iron. It's indestructible and absorbs all impacts.

£17.5K ROOF RACK!

Meet the Koenigsegg Agera R – a 275mph hypercar with a roof rack!

- Swedish hypercar Jedis Koenigsegg have identified a potential problem with their 940bhp, 245mph Agera – they aren't sure if it's quite hardcore enough. So, being good, honest craftsmen, they've built their fastest model ever – the 261mph 1,115bhp Agera R!
- Launched in March last year, the original flavour Agera has a carbon-fibre and Kevlar bodyshell, with removable hardtop (stowable under-the-front bonnet) and a space-age carbon and aluminium honeycomb chassis. It reaches 62mph in 3.0 seconds and hits 124mph in only 8.0 secs!

- The R is essentially the same beautiful, two-seater rocket ship, but with enough thrust to bang 62mph in 2.9

seconds, smash 0-124mph in just 7.0 secs and top out at a very heady 261mph.

- Thanks to the Agera R's remarkable 1,330kg dry-weight, it's over half a tonne lighter than Bugatti's Veyron, with a far better power-to-weight ratio (1bhp per 1.19kg).
- Thanks to a monster-vented, drilled, carbon-ceramic disc brake in each corner (392mm up front, 380mm out back), the Agera R can go from 0-124mph-0 in 12.7 seconds. Impressive!

- Unlike some hypercar makers, Koenigsegg uses a completely custom-made engine, the block of which is made in the UK by the same folks who do Bugatti's Veyron lump. So, it may be a Swedish car, but the core of its heart is British. Nice!

ish nutjob!

TWO-SEATER!

0-62 IN 2.9 SECS!

- The Agera R costs £132,000 more than the "normal" £875,000 Agera but it's more eco-friendly, too. It'll unload 1,115bhp if you run it on E85 ethanol bio fuel, or 1,050bhp on regular super unleaded.
- Koenigsegg likes to encourage its customers to use the cars during winter, hence there being a £7,322 winter wheel/tyre combo option available.
- A Norwegian customer for one particular car (pictured top left) wanted somewhere to hold his skis, so Koenigsegg made a roof section that incorporates this carbon-fibre Thule roof box for £17,593 extra!
- The Agera R has been tested to 261mph but with its wing shape and special Vortex Generating Rim (VGR) wheels to create extra downforce, Koenigsegg reckons the Agera R could do 275mph. Mind you, the specially developed tyres are "only" rated to 260mph.
- So the total wallet damage? A snip at £1,007,000.

Jim does a pun

Knut, the famous polar bear in Berlin Zoo, is dead. They reckon he was over-stimulated, that he went and had a whole lot of sex with female polar bears, then staggered away in his enclosure looking all depressed and distressed, and died. From being that excited to that depressed so quickly? He must be a bi-polar bear! Ha-ha!

Worldwide wangs

So, they've released this map online that shows how large the penises are in all the nations of the world. It turns out some of the old stereotypes are true – African men have the biggest penises, Asian men have the smallest. Surprisingly, the English have bigger penises than the Aussies, and Canadians have smaller penises than the Yanks (mind you, it is colder up there). A lot of people are asking where they got all this information about the world's penises. Well, there was no scientific study as such – they just asked Katie Price.

Back on the prowl

Tiger Woods is on the dating scene again! He's back in the game with a 22-year-old blonde whose own stepdad introduced her to the golfer. What kind of father would even let their daughter go out with such a man, after all his ex-wife went through. What could persuade a man to let his daughter date such a billionaire?

Bog standard

A fun one to finish! A Dallas woman was rescued by a fire crew last week after slipping and becoming impaled through the neck on her toilet roll holder. Apparently, she'd had bad knees for years – well, now she has a bad neck as well. She's OK, though. The police officer who found her said the toilet roll holder was in her neck with the toilet roll still on it. I was thinking maybe they could install toilet roll holders on the necks of the Loose Women, to help clean up some of the sh*t that comes out of their mouths!

Bloke zapped by equivalent of three lightning strikes – on purpose!

According to the boffins at Nasa, a lightning strike offers about 300,000 volts of toasting power. "That's nothing!" thought US art group Arc Attack when trying to come up with an idea to kick off Newcastle Science Fest 2011. "We'll fire a million volts through one of our guys! Now, who do we like the least?"

Step forward Patrick Brown, who donned a metal suit in order to prove that sometimes, really stupid ideas end up looking cool! According to Patrick, the stunt didn't hurt but he forgot to take off his metal ring, which "kinda stung".

We know just how he feels. The door handles at Nuts HQ are always giving us little shocks, and that's about the same, right?

Electric man!

Daredevil volt chap talks to Nuts!

Hi Patrick! How the heck did you come up with this idea?

Well, it wasn't my idea. The Arc Attack performance has been around for a long time, and the concept of the Faraday cage [the metal suit] has been around for a long while, too and individuals such as Dr Megavolt have been doing Faraday suit performances for years. I just sort of add my own twist to an old trick.

Did you need to do a lot of research to design the suit?

Even though folks have been doing suit performances for a while, there isn't much hard literature to draw upon. The concept itself is simple – cover the outside of the body in a layer of metal. The execution, however, isn't so simple – especially on a budget.

Did the original design need many improvements?

I made the original suit top from 16-gauge galvanized links, much like the chainmail medieval knights would have worn. This was effective but cumbersome. The shirt alone weighed nearly 30kg! The trousers were made from bug screen – they were extremely light but also easy to tear. This isn't a desirable trait in safety material!

How did you go about making it safer? The answer came while searching the internet for chainmail.

I found some butcher gloves made from a light, stainless steel ring mesh. Each link is cut and welded into a fabric. The fabric's flexible and resistant to snags and tears, since it's designed for safety.

So how did you get it made?

It was simply a matter of finding a commercial vendor willing to produce the mesh to my specifications. The Ring Lord, a chainmail artist from Saskatoon in Canada, came to my aid to create the chainmail used in my current suit. I simply sewed the various pieces together with magnet wire and made the hood detachable.

What does it feel like when the juice is flowing through?

Inside the Faraday suit, I actually don't feel anything. I'm totally isolated from the electricity. It's certainly very loud and I feel some displacement of air from the sound pressure waves created by the spark. I don't even get a sense of heat while inside the chainmail though.

Has the performance ever gone wrong? So far, we have a perfect safety record. This is our number one goal – safety for performers and audience participants. We take extra care with thorough safety inspections of the Faraday suits and other gear before each performance, and so far, no mishaps.

Out of interest, if you weren't wearing the suit, what would a million volts do to a human body? Death by a Tesla coil in this way would be a horrible thing! What would happen is the spark would burn through the flesh, sort of like what Emperor Palpatine did to Luke Skywalker!

Do you ever get the feeling that half the crowd are only watching in the hope that something goes wrong?

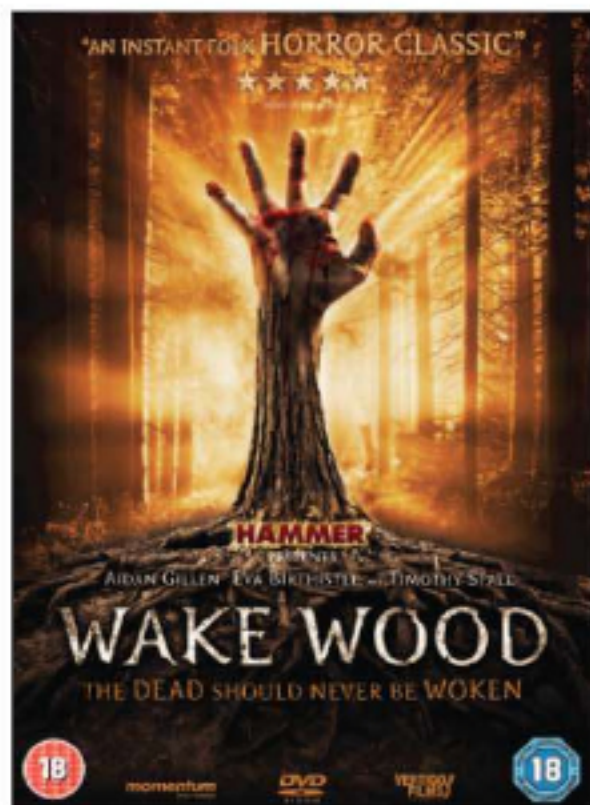

There's certainly that human element of danger to the performance. I don't think it's possible to watch this portion of the performance without some sort of morbid curiosity as to what may happen in the event of a catastrophic failure of the suit. Heck, I'm kind of curious myself – I'd certainly watch a video of it!

Thanks, Patrick! Finally, does it help you pick up girls?

Somehow, the Faraday suit isn't the chick magnet that I'd hoped it would be!

The second engineer replied, "Well, I was walking through the campus, minding my own business, when a beautiful woman rode up to me on this very bike. She threw the bike to the ground, took off all her clothes and said, 'Take what you want!'"

The first engineer nodded approvingly. "Good choice," he said.

EMMA FRAIN &
LINDSEY STRUTT

It's Emma

& Lindsey!

Two for the price of one!

Hi girls! Is it easy being really sexy?

Lindsey Strutt: No! I was making funny faces at Emma the whole time. We were getting pretty close – almost kissing – but at the last second, I'd just pull a funny face at her!

Emma Frain: It was meant to be all black lingerie and really sexy, but I was sitting on the floor, ➔ and Strutters was sitting in between my legs facing me, so the camera couldn't see her face, and she was pulling stupid faces at me while I was trying to be serious! I just couldn't do it and I kept getting shouted at! You got me in trouble, Strutter!

EMMA FRAIN & LINDSEY STRUTT

Yeah, but look at the results!

Emma: I like this look actually. It's very grown-up. The oil got all over me, though! I had to have my make-up redone twice because the oil made it run. It was in my hair and I spilled half a bottle over Lindsey's boobs!

Lindsey: You loved it! You told me you love a bit of oil!

Cripes! What sexy underwear do you put on if you think you're going to get lucky?

Emma: If I knew I was going to get some action, I'd plan it out in advance. I'd make sure I looked good, then put on something special, maybe a nice cleavage-boosting bra and some little knickers. I like to make an effort!

Lindsey: Well, I'm just dead spontaneous, so I don't even plan. If I was going to, I'd probably just go for something sexy, black and small!

What was the last thing that really wound you up?

Lindsey: Oh God, that's a tough one! Some things make me a bit angry and some things make me flip, but it's got to be something serious! I can't think of the last time, to be honest. It was probably something to do with a boy, though!

Emma: I honestly can't remember the last time I got really angry. I agree with Strutters, though – I expect it was something to do with a lad. Why do you lot wind us up?

Sorry! Would you rather be naked on a motorbike or naked in a convertible car?

Lindsey: In a convertible car. It's a bit more comfortable and you might be a bit warmer than if you were on a bike! I haven't been naked in a convertible yet, but I'll never say never!

Emma: I'd rather be naked on a motorbike! But only if they closed the road or something, so no one could see me. I'd get quite embarrassed! I love being naked but maybe not in public! What was the last sexy thought you had?

Lindsey: It was probably about Danny out of The Script! Well, that and seeing Emma's naked oiled-up body about two feet away from me. That was hot!

Emma: Cheers, Strutters! Mine was this morning actually. I just woke up feeling horny! I don't remember having had any rude dreams but maybe I had one subconsciously and then forgot, and that's why I woke up in the mood for it – it was the perfect preparation for a Nuts shoot!

Is it better to be serious or jokey in the bedroom?

Emma: It depends on the time and the mood! Sometimes in the past, when I've been having sex, I've become a little bit stupid and my boyfriend at the time didn't like it. It kind of turned him off!

Lindsey: There's a time and a place for both. It's good to have a laugh if something funny goes on but if you're getting down to it, you should take it seriously!

What would happen if you two got stuck on a desert island?

Emma: I'd love that! Just sitting there sunbathing all day! We'd let Nuts come and take pictures once a month but we wouldn't want to be rescued! That said, what would we do for food?

Lindsey: We wouldn't try to eat each other or anything. We'd probably just sit there naked, getting a suntan, catching fish and making food! Then we'd try to find a coconut and make coconut drinks. I reckon we'd love it. We'd be in our element!

Thanks for the chat, girls!

Finally, what are your favourite things about being in Nuts?

Lindsey: It's fun to work for and we have a laugh! We just have such a good time. It's not exactly a normal job, is it? I like looking at the issues that I'm in, but I always have to send someone else down the shops to buy it in case people think I'm a weirdo!

Emma: I just like looking at sexy girls, so to be able to come along and see them is amazing! And if it hadn't been for Nuts, I might never have met Strutters and that would make me sad! ■

Russell Howard

"How does
go again?"

FIDGETY FUNNY MAN!

The top comic on his pants, his mum and robots vs dogs!

Hi Russell! You recently sold out your two biggest ever gigs at the O2 in London.

Was it scary? Yeah! It was an excellent remedy for any form of constipation! The whole tour's been good fun. Nowhere's been boring. I've just been travelling around, eating a lot of Nando's and doing a lot of gigs.

You've got an armchair on stage but you spend most of the time jumping around. Are you going to be annoying if we invite you over to watch the footy or a DVD? I am a bit fidgety, yes. It's interesting you noticed because my girlfriend says that a lot as well. We should never go out, you and me.

Maybe you have ants in your pants. Have you checked? My pants are absolutely fine. I don't have thrush or anything like that. I've just got a lot of energy! You like to joke that your mum's a bit eccentric. How would you like it if your mum went on tour and told embarrassing stories from when you were a teenager and handed around your baby photos? I'd love it! In fact, she should do that at the Edinburgh festival. She'd be far better than me. She's come to quite a few of the gigs, my mum, which is pretty cool. She was on stage on the O2 before anyone was there, pretending to be Lady Gaga.

How about your prankster brother? Ever worry he's going to pull the ultimate prank to get you back for everything you say about him? Nah. I said he was in the crowd in Newcastle and somebody said, "Get him on stage for an arm-wrestle!" So he came on stage in front of 6,000 people and beat me. It doesn't matter how well the gig's gone, you're suddenly the tw*t who's been beaten by his little brother. He went out on the razz in Newcastle and people were coming up and going,

"Hey, you're Russell Howard's brother, good work with the arm-wrestle!" He was getting free shots and got into the hotel at half four. So I think he does all right out of me!

"My brother arm-wrestled me in front of 6,000 people!"

Good News is back on telly! Are you ever worried there'll be no news and so you'll have nothing to talk about? No. It's fine. We'd do something about what they'd fill it with. They're very good at filling on News 24. I refer you to the Downing Street cat. A whole news report was given over to the fact that Downing Street has a new cat. Egypt was in turmoil, Libya was about to go on its arse and we were there going [does posh

British voice], "Britain's got a new cat to deal with the rat problem." There's always news. Good News is the most watched studio show on BBC3. Are you pleased you attract more viewers than Dog Borstal and Sex... With Mum And Dad? Exactly! I'm amazed we've beaten Dog Borstal. If I were in charge of BBC3, I'd give shows to all my mates from the circuit. If I was forced to do more programmes of that ilk, I'd do something involving dogs and robots. You own a robot and it's got to go out and kill a dog. A sort of cross between Robot Wars and Crufts? Exactly! Last year, you cycled from John O'Groats to Land's End to raise money for Comic Relief, but this year you didn't bother. Lazy? No! I was offered the 24 Hour Panel People show with David Walliams but I couldn't because of my tour. Tell you what, I'll donate some money instead. Sounds less exhausting! How come you support Liverpool? You're from Bristol! Yeah, I know. My dad wasn't really into football so I had to pick a team and Liverpool were the best when I was ten. I got asked to go to their training ground the other day. There was talk of me being allowed to watch them train but I had to turn it down because if I was Steven Gerrard and I saw me behind the goal, it'd totally put me off! Thanks, Russell! Finally, how's Archie your dog? He's very well. He's currently with my girlfriend. I spend so much time away that when I come back, I have to get him little treats. He's a spoilt little bum, to be honest. Why don't you take him on tour with you? My girlfriend wants me to do that but no, he'd go mental. He'd sh*t himself on stage. It just wouldn't be funny. Or maybe it'd end up being really funny and I wouldn't be able to follow it. A little dog runs around chasing its tail, then does a sh*t. If the audience go crazy for that, I'm not going to be able to top it! ■

A Nuts appreciation of the men who are too superstar to shave!

PRINCE WILLIAM

His Maj is second in line to the throne, so he can do what he likes when it comes to face-fuzz – a Royal beard is, by its very nature, the best there is!

MATTHEW FOX

Matthew is, we'd argue, the most dignified beardsmith on the list. But, if we were being mean, we'd note the shape's that of a bushy lady-garden!

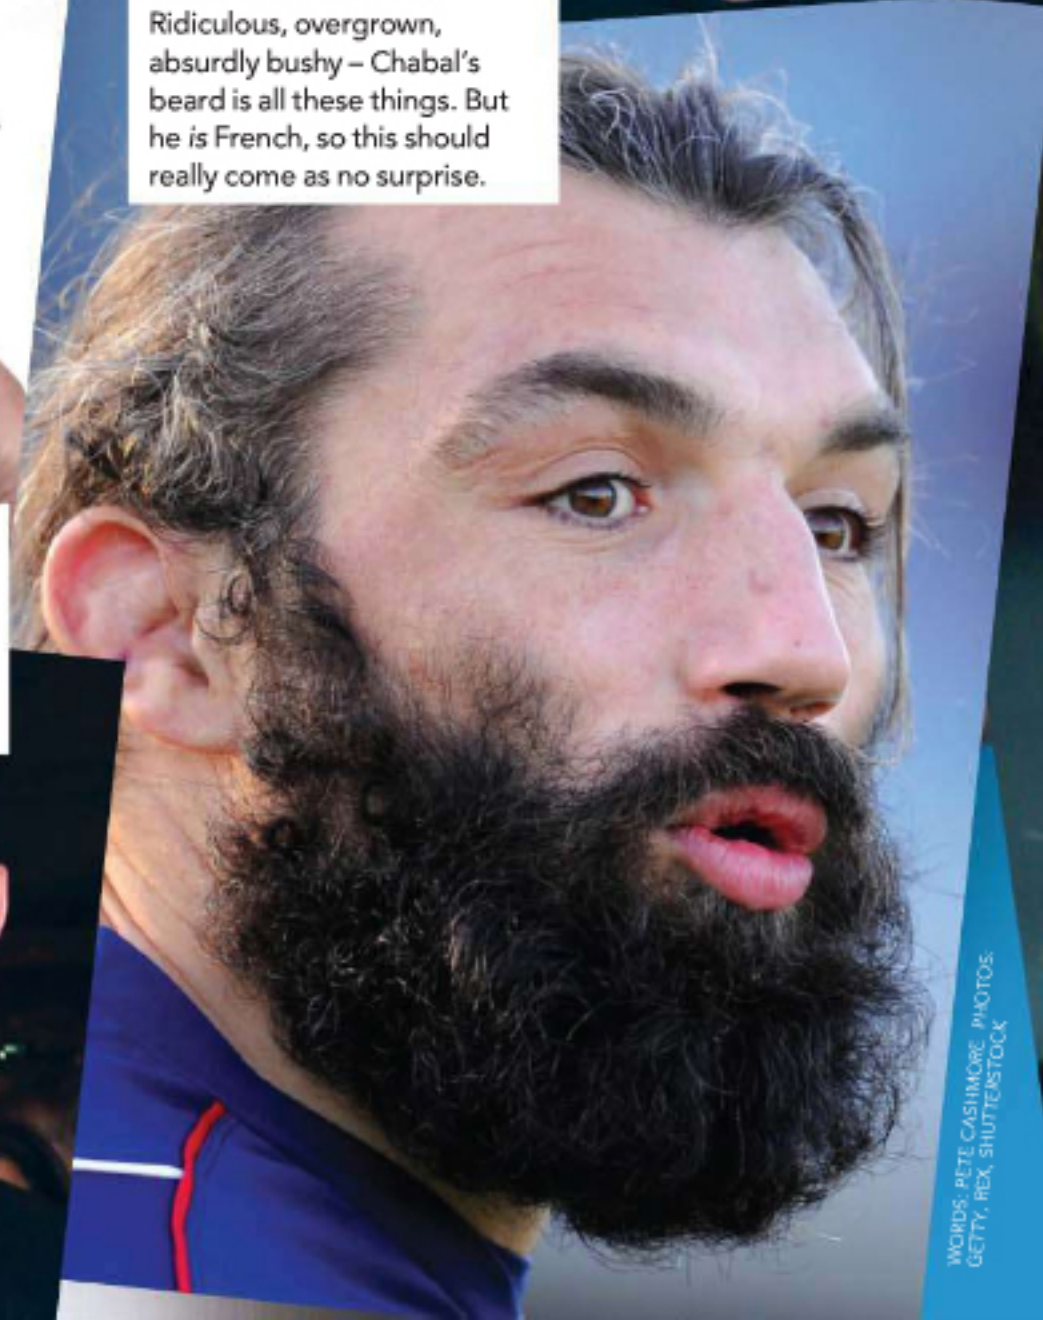

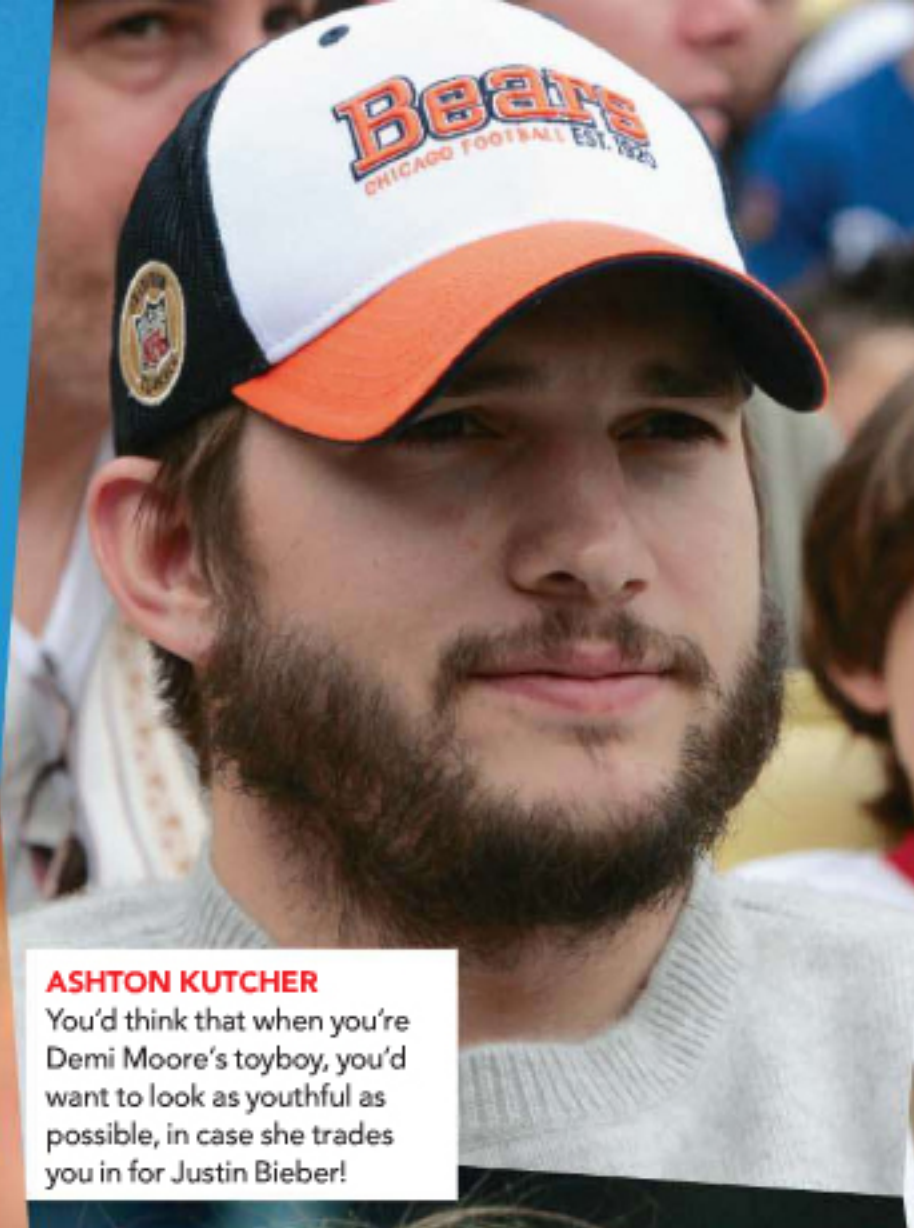

CHRISTIAN BALE

A beard that belongs on a Wild West sheriff. "Put down your pistol, Wild Bill. And stop pointing out that my moustache looks like a pool!"

SEBASTIEN CHABAL

Ridiculous, overgrown, absurdly bushy – Chabal's beard is all these things. But he is French, so this should really come as no surprise.

ASHTON KUTCHER

You'd think that when you're Demi Moore's toyboy, you'd want to look as youthful as possible, in case she trades you in for Justin Bieber!

BRAD PITT

We can only guess as to the number of small woodland creatures that made their home in Brad's beard. It's not just massive, it's eco-friendly!

JOAQUIN PHOENIX

What does this beard say? It says, "I'm a maverick. I'm a wild man. I don't conform to society's rules about neatness. And I may live at a bus stop."

ALEX SONG

All-over bleaching shows a real commitment to beardy bonkersness. Just don't ask us to check if Alex had his downstairs bits done, too!

KEANU REEVES

When you've liberated mankind from murderous robots, you can let the chin-fuzz grow for a bit. Or, several months! Good effort, Keanu! ■

Internet feuds spill over into street battles!

Thugs orchestrate street operations online!

Police track crims on social networking sites!

Gangs on Twitter!

The US hoodlums plotting turf wars using social media – and the cops trying to catch them!

For most of us, Facebook is a way of keeping in touch with what our friends are up to and maybe tagging embarrassing photos of them enjoying a refreshing beverage or two. And Twitter is a way of keeping in touch with what our favourite sports stars and celebrities are up to. But for the street gangs of New York and Los Angeles, social networking sites are proving to be channels through which crimes can be planned and turf wars instigated – but also, crucially, through which the self-same criminal gangs are caught out by their own online bluster.

#Guns And Violence

Many US street gangs are composed almost entirely of young people in their mid-teens – people who traditionally text, tweet, poke, post, share and generally show off. As Captain Walt Myer, director of the Riverside County regional gang task force in California, tells Nuts, “The activity of the gangs mirrors general society. When any new technology comes along, they’re going to use it.”

In New York, gang tweeting has already led to violence and the coordination of some brutal confrontations. Back in autumn 2009, a member of the Original Young Gangsters crew from Harlem was shot in the leg in the street because of a war of words he’d instigated with a rival gang on Twitter.

These violent incidents can stem from a single, deliberately provocative tweet – once the original diss starts to snowball and other gang members get whipped up into a rage, there’s no telling where it all might end. As Li’l V, a 15-year-old member of the New York gang New Dons puts it, Twitter is useful for “settin’ up the fights” and the forming of other plans.

But it’s not just the gangs who are eyeballing other gangs with interest. The Harlem-based Perfect Peace Unity Youth Outreach program is a community organisation that keeps an eye on the activity of 4,000 teenagers caught up in gang life. In November 2009, the volunteers who work for the program were able to monitor the tweets of three local gangs to discern that two youths were in danger of being hurt, then send out peace-makers to “squash the beef” before the guns came out. A flashpoint that started on Twitter, snuffed out – thanks to Twitter.

#Facebook Criminals

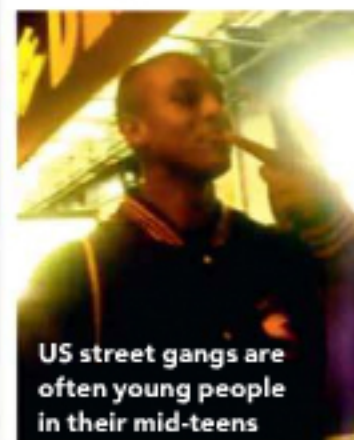

Police may not be able to prevent crimes using Twitter, but they’re finding it can prove a useful resource in cleaning it up afterwards. “[Twitter] is another tool, just like old phone records,” a New York police source tells Nuts. “We can go through [the messages] to track these guys.” This is exactly how they recently caught some members of the infamous 2 Mafia Family from Harlem who were using Twitter to discuss business.

Gang members have an unfortunate inability to censor themselves when it comes to both threatening their enemies and boasting.

In San Francisco last year, a small tweet-storm erupted when a drug-dealing gang member was released from jail early, leading his fellow gang-bangers to believe he’d turned police informant. And so the tweet went out, “This guy is a snitch.” Investigators who’d been monitoring the gang for months were able to simply sit back and watch the incriminating tweets roll in. As a result, three other gang members were arrested.

New York gangs goad their opponents on Twitter

Members of the 2 Mafia Family were caught after police examined their tweets

“Once the cops get into a Facebook group, they have a rolling commentary” replies ↑

replies ↓

In another California gang case, much of the investigators' information came from trawling messages posted to Facebook.

“Once you get into a Facebook group, it's relatively easy. You have a rolling commentary,” says Dean Johnston of the California Bureau Of Narcotics Enforcement.

“They talk too much,” says LA County Sheriff's Deputy David Anguiano. “You want the fame, so you've got to go out there and talk about it – and your mouth gets you in trouble.”

LA gangs are social media junkies, boasting of their prowess and goading their opponents on Facebook groups set up for the Crips, the Bloods, MS-13 and other gangs. These Facebook groups are awash with gang signs, members posing with firearms and, in the case of some pages dedicated to the particularly brutal MS-13, video montages of murder victims from rival gangs. All of this can help prosecutors prove that a suspect is a gangster with such ease that it seems baffling to an outsider exactly what the magnetic pull of the internet is to people who presumably have no desire to be sent to jail.

“Prosecutors will say, ‘Here's you throwing gang signs, here's you with known gang members, and here's you holding up a weapon you claim never to have seen before,’” says Dallas lawyer and social media expert John Browning. A case of guilt by Facebook update.

However, any gang member wishing to forego their tweets and wall posts might want to consider the case of suspected armed robber Rodney Bradford. In 2009, the Brooklyn teenager was looking at 25 years in jail – and indeed spent 12 days in New York's notorious Rikers Island prison after his arrest – until it was pointed out that he'd posted a message on Facebook demanding a pancake breakfast from his girlfriend one minute before the robbery took place. As a result, the charges were dropped and, on this occasion, it was the supposed criminal youth who had the last LOL. ■

Jessica-Jane clement!

The telly star in her sexy smalls!

Y ou know when you're a bit short on cash and you've got a date? Well, if your date was Jessica-Jane Clement, you wouldn't have to worry because she could blag a meal at a top restaurant or convince someone to give her wads of cash! Of course, if you were going out with JJC, you'd probably want to stay in anyway – and here's why! ➡

ON TV!

JESSICA-JANE
CLEMENT

"I'm such a laid-back,
happy person!"

Hi JJC! What's the worst present you've ever received? I once got Donnie Darko on DVD!

I'd heard of it but I'd never go out of my way to watch it! Luckily, it was a Christmas present, so the person wasn't there when I opened it! I couldn't get my head around it at all!

Got any outrageous new tattoos planned? I haven't had any new ink for about a year, but I have something up my sleeve! Maybe I'll get it in the summer. The tattoo, I mean! Ha-ha!

Would you ever get any on your face or neck? I'd get eyeliner tattooed, or my eyebrows done, yeah. I have a little tat on the back of my neck already.

What's on your iPod right now? I have that American Anthems album and loads of '90s pop! Peter Andre; Vengaboys; Backstreet Boys and, of course, Macarena – a classic!

Who was the last person that really annoyed you? Some jobsworth at Brighton Station who insisted on thoroughly checking all my tickets when my train was leaving in two minutes. The more angry I got, the more time he took telling me to calm down! He was like a seatbelt – the harder you tug it, the more it locks up and the more annoyed you get!

When was the last time you did something that surprised you about yourself? I surprise myself when the "fight or flight" mode sets in, because I obviously don't understand the "flight" part! Too much adrenaline isn't good for me. I'm such a laid-back, happy person but when I turn, I'm like a woman scorned!

What type of girlfriend are you? I always make sure I've got nice hair, nails, tan and perfume. I think it's important to make an effort for your man. I'm happy to spend all day doing nothing with the one I love. Fancy restaurants and parties are good for a treat, but you need a bond that can survive without the champagne veneer. When was the last time you had a wild night out? My birthday! My three best friends all have birthdays within four days of ➔ mine, so it's always full-on. Friday and Saturday were fun, but Sunday was the mental one. It's always the nights you don't plan that turn crazy!

If we came to yours for a party, what could we expect? A drink handed to you as soon as you walk in and more drinks in your hand until the moment you walk out! Lots of yummy nibbles and probably a trip to the local to break up the night, too. I like variation. A YouTube session always sneaks its way in to check out the funny videos as well!

Are you a good cook? I am! I love cooking for someone. I love feeding and watering people. I'm very much into vegetables and anything with my home-made tomato sauce and chopped basil is a winner.

Have you ever been to a nudist beach? Yes, but I didn't realise for a while! I wasn't really paying attention. It was full of more mature people, so there were plenty of fur bikinis, if you know what I mean – that's probably why I didn't notice!

Who do you really admire at the minute? I'm following "Little Buddha" on Twitter! I admire all the things he tweets, the kind of stuff that immediately lifts a great weight off your shoulders! My Twitter name is @KissJessicaJane – come follow me, I love having a bit of banter with people on there.

When was the last time you told a fib and what was it? I tell little white lies just to keep naggers off my back. I'll say I've done something when I'm just about to do it, to avoid the whole "You haven't done it yet?" scenario!

When was the last time you did something you wish you hadn't? I had one last vodka and Coke in Brighton the other night and it sent me over the edge! I was doing well up to that point. I woke up with bruises all over my legs and a half-eaten pizza in front of me. Not good!

After seeing you on The Real Hustle, do people try to hustle you on a regular basis? Not so much hustle me but I get a lot of men telling me they could never be hustled! Funnily enough, they're the perfect people to hustle. They're so cocky and ➡

"I didn't even realise
I was on a nudist beach!"

"I always go out of my way to help people!"

sure, I could nick everything while they're telling me how "Jack the Lad" they are.

What was the last nice thing you did for someone? I walked a Chinese girl to a restaurant she was looking for. I could have just given directions. I think it's a northern thing – I'll always go out of my way to help someone.

If we could grant one wish for you right now, what would it be? I'd ask you to stop my nightmares! I have them all the time. It's awful when you wake up and it's still fresh in your head. I dream about ghosts, late homework, being chased... and I don't even eat much cheese!

Would you ever become a redhead? I'd love bright red hair but everyone's doing it at the moment. I might settle for ➡

JESSICA-JANE
CLEMENT

"I'm always thinking something naughty!"

some streaks. Red hair brings out blue eyes, so it's a hot look. How many naughty thoughts do you have every day? I'm always thinking something naughty. I used to say what was on my mind but it can be quite disrespectful to people who don't want to hear it. I can tell straight away if a girl has a filthy mind. I think I attract them! What was the last thing you laughed at when you shouldn't have? I laugh when people are telling me something tragic or really serious. I think it's a nervous thing. My friend told me yesterday she ran over her cat twice and had a £500 vet bill. I laughed but then she laughed, too. I guess it's contagious! How often do you swear? Not a lot, but I'll call my girlfriends names. My favourite one is the C word. When I say it, southerners immediately repeat it, mimicking my accent. You know which word I'm talking about, don't you?

Er, we can guess! Thanks, Jess! Finally, what's your favourite book and film? I love porn stars' autobiographies! I've just finished Monica Mayhem's – it was brilliant. My favourite film has to be Spaceballs – "I'm a mog. Half man, half dog." Ha-ha! What a brilliant film! ■

There have been many messes for the England team under Fabio Capello and the issue of the captaincy being handed back to John Terry was yet another. I think Capello made the correct decision in the end but the way Rio Ferdinand and Steven Gerrard were treated was absolutely appalling.

his intentions and thanked them both for the exemplary way they'd taken on the role. As usual though, Capello muddled his way through it, involving the press, contradictory words from his backroom staff and the FA, and nobody had a clue exactly what was going on until the middle of last week when Terry gave a press conference to announce how proud he was to be captain again.

Fabio Capello continues to show that he simply can't communicate with the players, and has no real understanding of just how important the title of England captain is.

Terry is undoubtedly an excellent skipper, both for Chelsea and his country, so I'm quite happy that he's been reinstated. It means a lot to him and, to be fair, the reasons he was removed from the role weren't related to football.

The situation with Wayne Bridge seems to be in the past now and both players seem to be getting on with their football, especially Bridge who has been very good since joining West Ham in January.

My problem with Capello is that he seems to have been forgiven for the absolute disaster of the World Cup campaign last year, yet seems to have learnt very few, if any, of the lessons it brought up.

You only have to look at the way he handled the retirement of David Beckham from the squad by telling him in the middle of a television interview and then having to make a panicked phone call to explain the situation to Becks.

Nothing I've seen to do with England since then – especially this ridiculous pantomime over who gets to wear the captain's armband – has shown me that he's the right person to lead the nation forward. For me, the sooner Capello goes, the better!

The second coming of Jose

I think Jose Mourinho will be the next manager of Man City. The Portuguese genius gave notice last week of his intention to come back to England in the near future and after the poor season Roberto Mancini's had at Eastlands, with only the FA Cup left to play for, I think Mourinho knows something we don't. I expect him to be in charge of Man City come August.

Merse's Premier League flops!

MERSE!

Why are so many big names wobbling?

"Look, it's stuck to my ankle!"

WAYNE ROONEY

"I think a lot of Wayne's problems have to do with some of the stuff in his personal life. I used football as a refuge from my problems but everyone's different, so you might say Rooney lost some of the 'devil' that made him so good. I think this boy is a real gem, so I wouldn't write him off!"

WOBBLE RATING

"No, I don't want a hug!"

DIDIER DROGBA

"Chelsea say he's been recovering from malaria, but I suspect it's something more basic. Drogba's at his best when he's felt loved and at the focal point of everything, but he's been rested – and even dropped – this season. He just needs an arm round him and to be told he's still Mr Chelsea!"

WOBBLE RATING

"Eh? What? I've just woken up!"

JOE COLE

"I had big hopes for Joe at Anfield. He's a terrific player with a good attitude, but it's gone from bad to worse since getting sent off on his debut, and injury's made him a shadow of the player he once was! You have to wonder if he'll ever be a force in the Premier League again. I hope so!"

WOBBLE RATING

TORRES!

'Sigh! I wonder what Stevie G's up to!'

FERNANDO TORRES

"A lot of people thought his lack of form earlier this season was down to an injury, but I think he didn't fancy it at Liverpool any more. He's a quality player but he's had a shocker for Chelsea – his confidence is so low! He'll come good, but I think we can write off this season for Torres!"

WOBBLE
RATING

"Piggy back? No?"

ANDREY ARSHVIN

"He's got bags of ability but goes missing in too many games. He's got flair but only shows it in fits and starts, and Arsenal have enough skilful players already – they need a dominant midfielder, not someone who can be a bit of a luxury. He hasn't looked like he's enjoyed his football this season!"

WOBBLE
RATING

"Jon Obi? I didn't even know you were still here!"

FRANK LAMPARD

"Lampard always gets stick, and I can't see why. He's not touched by genius but he's scored 20-odd goals in every campaign I can remember – that's incredible for a midfielder! He's had too many injuries this season, which has stopped him gaining momentum but he's doing OK when fit!"

WOBBLE
RATING

"Well, you do look like a girl!"

GLEN JOHNSON

"I stand by what I've said about Johnson – he's great going forward but he's found wanting defensively! I feel a bit sorry for him because he's played out of position. He could be a right-midfielder in my mind, certainly not a left-back! He has a lot to do next season to rebuild his reputation!"

Nuts Poker School

This week:
choosing the game for you!

1. Sit & Go

A Sit & Go is a one-table tournament with anything from two to ten players. It's perfect for new players – you get a lot of play for a small buy-in and there's a good chance of getting a prize.

To win at Sit & Go, play tight in the early game and try to make sure you're still around for the later stages when the blinds get high and some players have been eliminated. At this point, it's vital to start playing very aggressively, raising lots of pots to steal blinds and going all-in with rubbish hands against players you think are clinging on. Sit & Go is hugely exciting and perfect if you like a bit of adrenaline at the table!

2. Multi-table tournaments

Multi-table tournaments (MTTs) are similar to Sit & Go but have loads more players. As players are eliminated, tables break up until you're eventually left with one final table and then a winner. MTTs are the best way to win big money, even from small buy-ins.

If you can accumulate chips early, it'll give you a huge advantage, as the blinds get big later on. Play your big pairs aggressively and look to flop a set cheaply with hands like 2-2 and 3-3 that can easily double you up. As you get deeper in, concentrate on getting more chips that could take you to the final table – that's where the big money is.

If you're new to online poker it can be tough knowing where to start. Chances are you've watched a bit of no-limit Texas hold'em or had a punt at it online. On PKR there are three types of hold'em to choose from. Here's the lowdown to each from Team PKR Pro, Scott Shelley, to help you choose which game suits you best – and your wallet!

3. Cash games

In a cash game, each player buys in for any amount they want (up to 100 big blinds) and each hand is played for real money, with the blinds staying the same. Unlike a tournament you can buy back in if you lose all your chips.

Avoid the urge to bluff as you'll be called a lot more in this type of game. Focus on making big hands and betting strongly. For experienced players, cash games are the most consistent way to make money, but be careful – the money can get serious really quickly! You've been warned!

Funny goings-on in the wonderful world of sport! Send pics, chants etc to tim_bradley@ipcmedia.com

► This is an absolute cruncher from the recent rugby league game between Wigan Warriors and Hull but what we want to know is, why is Paul Scholes getting involved? He can't even tackle in football!

► Over in Kyrgyzstan, goat-throwing is considered the national sport and these men are chucking a goat carcass about while on horseback, trying to get it in their opponent's "goal". Words fail us!

► Spare a thought for South Korea's Hwang Hyun-Sun here. Not only is he not very good at short-track speed-skating but, as you can see from this pic, now all his mates will see him looking like a Benny!

► If you're an Italian rugby fan, chances are you have to make your own entertainment to stop yourself from getting bored. Well this particular fan decided to make his hair and beard look stupid!

► Fair enough, Valentino Rossi. Even if we were as good as you at riding motorbikes, we still wouldn't be able to turn a blind eye when faced with a lady like that in her undercrackers!

MANAGER'S CORNER!

No.1 Sam Allardyce!

Where we put bosses on the spot

Hi Big Sam. What was your first car? A 1963 Ford Cortina Mark 3. I bought it using my hard-earned cash from when I first started playing at the age of 15, while I was earning £125 a week.

What's your earliest sporting memory? Scoring a header for my junior school team when we won the cup. Also, watching Wolves for the first time with my brother and father on the North Bank – since then, I knew I always wanted to be a footballer.

What would you be if you weren't a manager? I don't know what I'd be but whatever I did, I'd have to be self-employed and be my own boss, responsible for my own success and not having to deal with people telling me when to start, finish and the like.

Which player or team did you most enjoy beating? Teams like Arsenal or Liverpool. People talk about the psychological strength of Wenger, Mourinho and Ferguson. I was able to psych them all out so that even a small club like Bolton could compete with all the bigger clubs.

What's on your iPod right now? I have an iPad, too! I try to stay up to speed with all of the technology. Some of the music on my iPod now includes Motown and Queen. Queen are my favourite band of all time.

Have you ever been mistaken for anyone famous? When I played football in the US, I was mistaken for Tom Selleck. All I was missing was the red Ferrari!

Finally, which three guests would you invite to a dinner party? Muhammad Ali, Nelson Mandela and Sir Alex Ferguson. Ferguson would serve the wine, but I'd choose the food. It would be honest, English, traditional and well-cooked.

Nuts GAMBLING MASTERCLASS!

We poured this advice into a Nuts man's head and sent him online to try to win!

Deal or No Deal top tips!

Deal or No Deal is a game enjoyed just by those who believe in a "system", right? Well, the TV game show might be, but the multi-line slot isn't!

For as little as 5p a go, you can win big – and if you're willing to play on all lines, you could win a progressive jackpot. In fact, one winner walked off with £1.96m!

And best of all? You can win big money in the comfort of your own home!

HOW TO PLAY

- The aim is to get winning symbol combinations from a spin of the reels, with the ultimate aim being to win the progressive jackpot.
- You can gamble up to 20p on each of the 20 pay lines. That's up to 20 chances to win on each play!
- The progressive jackpot can only be won on the Deal or No Deal bonus game, but there are also two other fun bonus games called Banker's Offer and Mystery Box Bonus, where you can win cash.

THE NUMBER LINES

It's all self-explanatory – click the number beside the reels, or the "Bet One" or "Bet Max" button. Choose Bet Max for the chance to play the bonus game and win the biggest jackpots!

BONUS GAME

If you're betting on all 20 pay lines and you get three Deal or No Deal bonus symbols on any pay line, the bonus game begins. This is much like the Deal Or No Deal TV show, only the big progressive jackpot is at stake here. Don't be too greedy or, like us, you could end up with £8 instead of £100!

He won big!

David R won £58,236 on Deal or No Deal!*

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'We steamed up the car'

I go to college a few days a week for a beauty course. There's a massive car park and every day when I park, I see a hot guy in his car enjoying a cigarette. We'd been sharing eye contact for weeks and exchanged a few sexy comments. One day as I parked, I was feeling really naughty so I invited him over to my car. I saw the excitement in his eyes as he raced over. Within minutes we were snogging and he had his hands down my top, caressing my hard nipples. The car steamed up quite quickly and I soon had my hands on his crown jewels. I slid my wet lips down over his erection and moved him in and out of my warm mouth. He could barely contain his groans and was coming in no time. We now meet regularly for saucy car sessions!

Sarah, Barnes

'He took me from behind'

Having been full of a cold and nasty chest infection for over a week, I couldn't wait to see my man. As soon as my doorbell went, I raced out and gave him a full-on kiss, enjoying his lips and tongue as it delved into my wet mouth. He followed me into the kitchen where I was chopping some veg for dinner. I felt his lips on my neck and his hand moved to the front of my tracksuit bottoms. He kissed the back of my neck and I moaned as his fingers slid inside me. I was wet, and with his free hand, he unbuttoned his jeans to release his erection, while I bent over to take his shaft. As he pumped against me, I bent over the counter, sending the chopping board and veg flying. It was hot and horny, and I loved glancing back and seeing my bum bang against his tight stomach. I hope he welcomes me exactly like that next time he comes over!

Lisa, Romford

'The whole cinema saw us'

My boyfriend celebrated our four-year anniversary with a long weekend in Amsterdam. We went out to a bar and after a few drinks, he persuaded me to check out a cinema with him. When we'd paid our money and found a seat, I quickly realised that I was the only girl in there, and the only movies playing were porn! I felt uncomfortable at first and I soon realised that some of the men in the cinema were more interested in looking at me than at the screen. My boyfriend and I decided to play to the crowd, so I unzipped his trousers to see he was quite excited by the prospect. I took his large, throbbing member in my mouth and proceeded to run my lips up and down until he came. Once I'd swallowed, I looked up to see not a single eye on the screen. Those moviegoers certainly got their six euros worth that night and we went home to have the best sex of our relationship, thinking about those people watching us!

Tara, South Wimbledon

'She kissed me all over'

I'm not big into clothes shopping but when my new neighbour suggested a girl's day out to help spend her work bonus, I couldn't refuse. After getting a few bits, we were walking through a car park on our way home when she admitted she knew of a storage room in the car park where she and her old colleagues used to go for a smoke, so I asked her to show me. Giggling, she grabbed my hand and ran towards the door, stopping to give me a kiss. I felt myself flush as I thought about what could happen. As soon as we closed the door, she had her hands all over me. She kissed me all over and gave me oral on a pile of boxes. I can't wait to go shopping again now!
